QUOTH THE RAVEN:

It was near the deadline dreary, staffmen pondered, weak
and weary,

Over many a Tappan Tatler of years before;

Then upon our hearts came stealing inspiration, most revealing,

And with deep and rapturous feeling, memories filled us
by the score.

'Tis our heritage, we gloried, never realized before,

To be cherished evermore.

Let our hearts be still a moment and these pages now explore;

Quoth the Raven, "Ours for evermore."

YOUTH

I am youth.
I am young America
Grasping hold, trying
To bring myself up to
The level of my forbears.

I am learning.
I am learning young
The meaning of life.
For I have seen death
In reality with life.

I am gay.
I am being gay
Because I am young
And pretend not to know
Of the weariness of the world.

I am wondering.
I am wondering as to
My future in this
Weary, war-torn world
Of the kingdom of man.

I am looking.
I am looking ahead
To a future that reveals
In the splendor of man's
Peace of mind and heart.

Yes, I am youth.
A youth that knows
Of past wrongs
But is looking ahead,
Trying to build a better world.

Eunice Boyles.

HOME

It was just an old house in the country
I lived there all alone:
Your presence has filled it with
happiness,
And now I call it home.

Pat Roper.

WEATHER

In summer we wish it were cold,
In winter we wish it were hot,
On human perverseness,
My reply is with terseness,
We wish it whatever it's not.
In April we complain of the showers,
In March we are tired of the snow,
But we can't have May flowers,
In balmy spring bowers,
For all the year 'round you know!

Ruth Jones.

EARLY MORN

The trees were gently swaying,
The mist began to rise:
The sun was shining brightly
Up in those far off skies.
The birds were gayly singing
Of this bright new happy day
And the troubles of the evening
Were gone—far, far away.

Helen Stewart.

THE APRIL FOOL

On April Fool's day I had such fun
My geenius shone forth lik th sun.
I put a tak on mi naybor's seet,
He must hav jumped at least ten feet.
I told my pal his test anwers wer
rong,
He worried about it all day long.
I switshed salt for sugar and sugar
for salt
My mother thot her cooking at falt.
But when I tryed to giv a hot foot
to my big brother, Joe,
He caught on, then caught me, and therefore, I felt full of woe.
On Aprl Fool's Day I find,
The biggest fool is truly thine.

Ray Diator
(Pat McCardel)

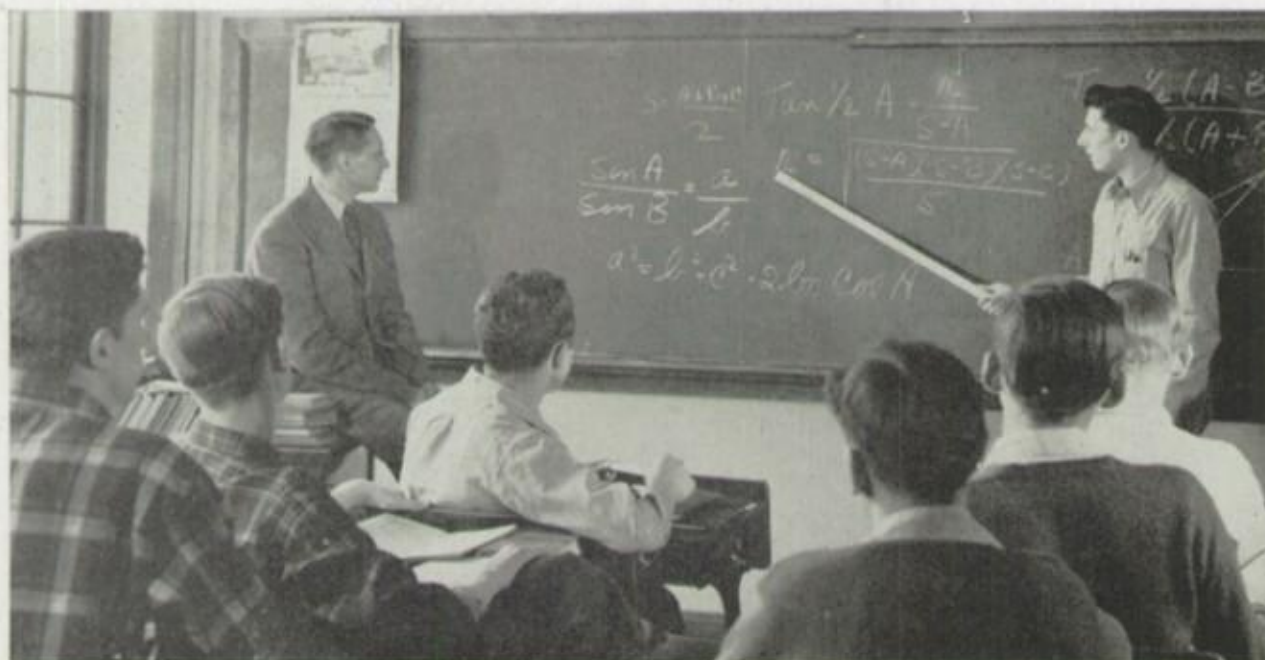

GIVE US A CHANCE

The sins of the world are mighty indeed
The problems are weighty, all men are agreed;
Politics, government, war, and peace—
To find a solution that conflict might cease
Men graying at temples and racing for time
Have valiantly, fruitlessly striven and pined.
But why must experience and realism rule?
Idealism of youth is a far better tool.
But some statesmen scoff at youth's ideals,
For youth is too young to know how it feels
To be laughed at and scorned by men of the world
Whose selfish schemes stifle peace and the Word.
Proud youth is undaunted, fears no man's dare:
He'll tackle the problems with optimist's flare.
Be they perilous, onerous, adventuresome, right
With strength of youth's body he'll fight a good fight.
Let youth prove his logic and realize his dreams:
Though the cynics jest loudly, to me it still seems
That unreal though it be, youth's reason is good.
And man would believe it if only he could.

Girl

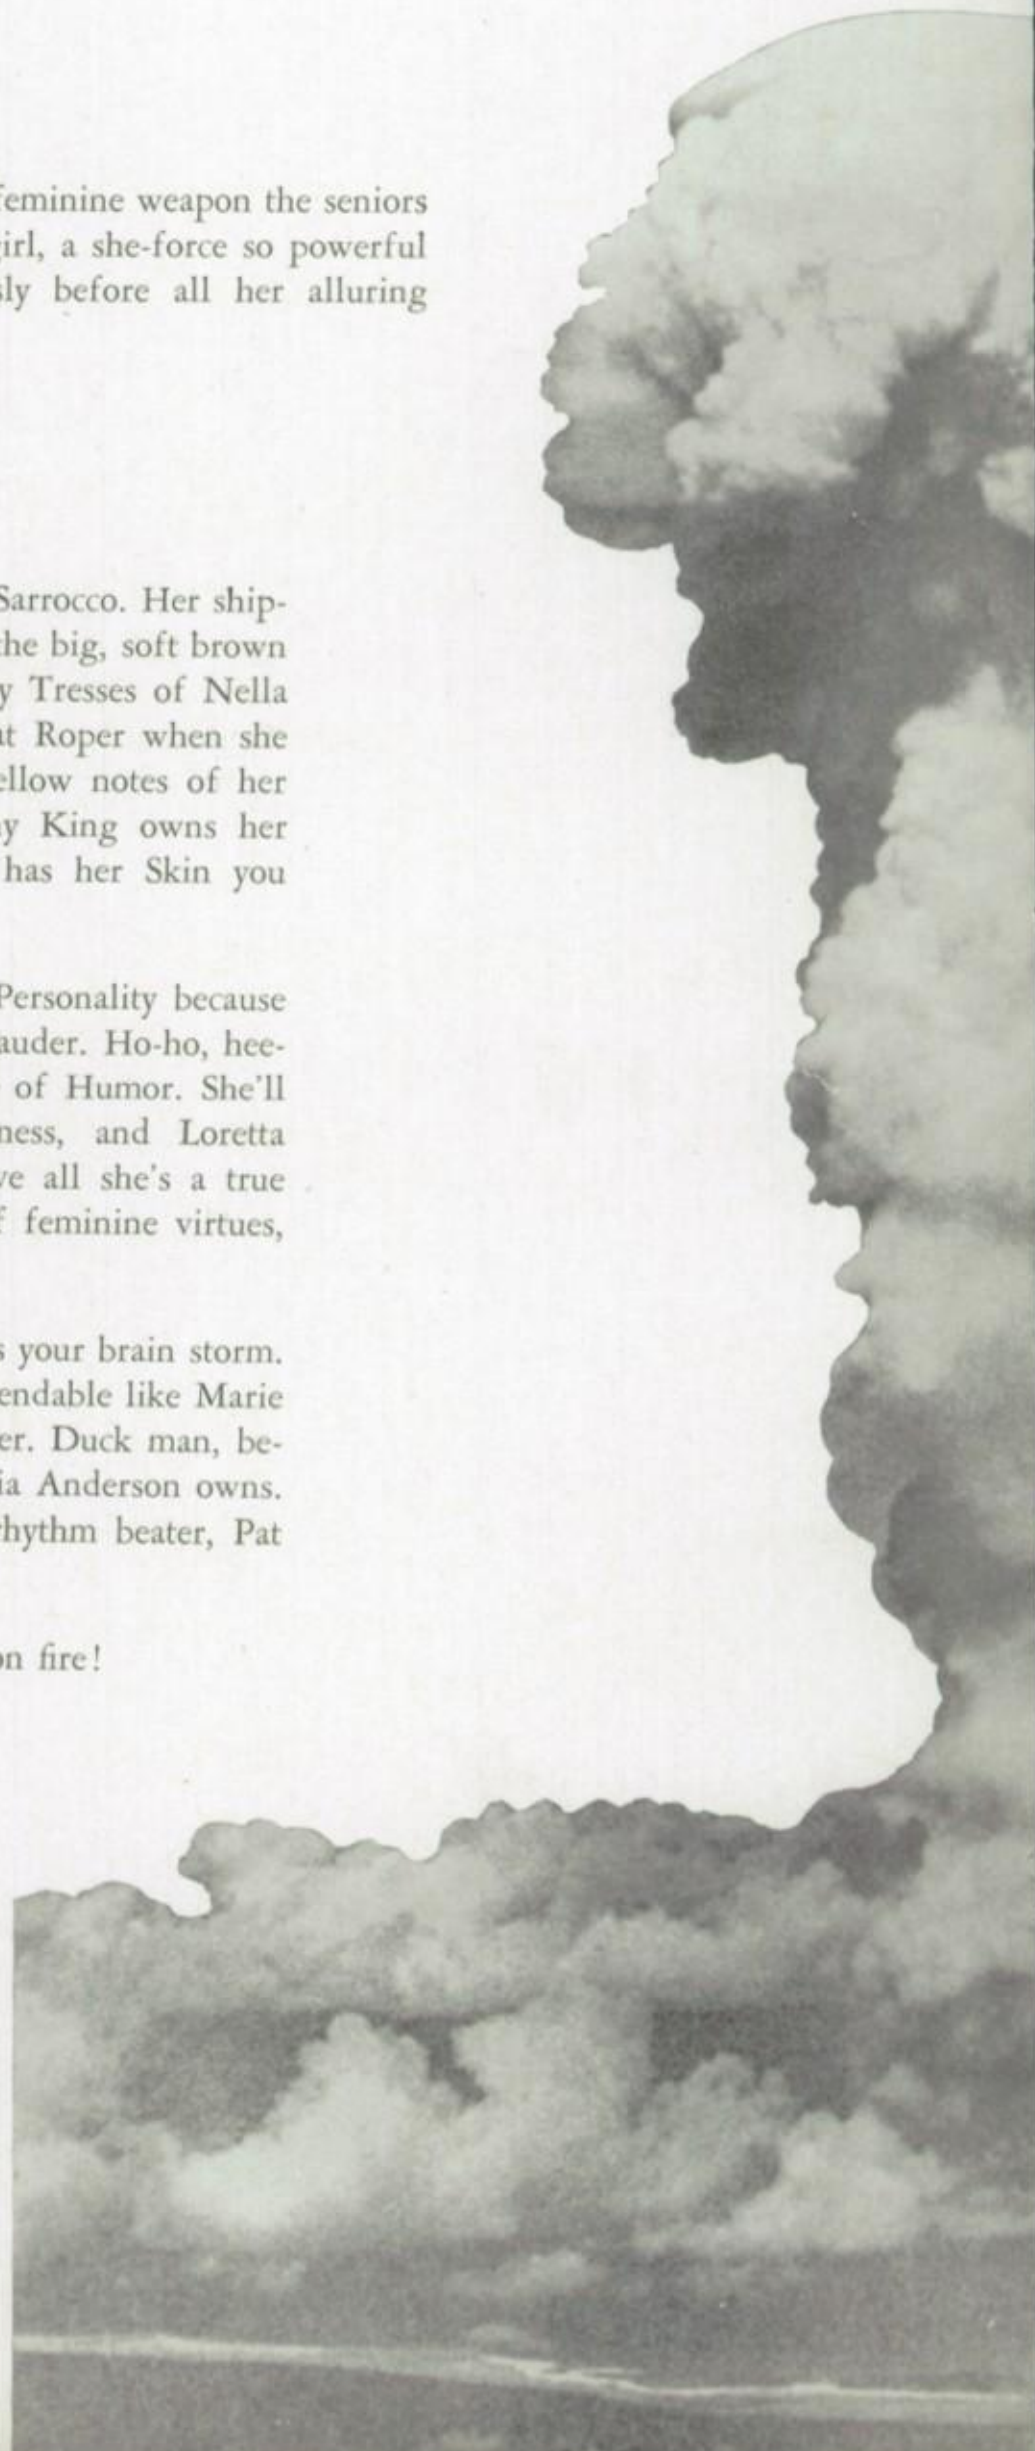

Straight from a 308 test tube is revealed the most potent feminine weapon the seniors could compound, "Miss A. Bomb." . . . Meet our atomic girl, a she-force so powerful that the army, navy and marines combined fall helplessly before all her alluring magnetic powers.

She Dresses like a million dollars and Madeline Sarrocco. Her ship-Shape belongs to Bernice Chechak. Those Eyes are the big, soft brown ones of Erlene Hoskins. She has the shining, curly Tresses of Nella Jean Wise. She can flash a dazzling Smile like Pat Roper when she can't say a word, and when she can, the deep mellow notes of her speaking Voice belong to Harlene Jones. Dorothy King owns her tapering graceful Hands, and Geraldine Bregant has her Skin you love to touch.

You don't have to go to Paris to find her nice Personality because Donna has it. Is she Friendly? Just like Barbara Sauder. Ho-ho, hee-hee, our atomic girl has a terrific Janet Zoll sense of Humor. She'll inflate you like a balloon with her Vivaciousness, and Loretta Postlethwaite is that girl chuck full of pep. Above all she's a true Lady like Marian Campbell, and has the fairest of feminine virtues, the Modesty of Anna Meduri.

You say you want an Intellect? Eileen Tubaugh is your brain storm. Efficiency A plus is Nancy Tamburrino. She is Dependable like Marie Damicone. Leader thou art and thou art Ora Dowler. Duck man, before you get knocked over by that Ambition Virginia Anderson owns. Oh you want to Dance? Hold in your arms our rhythm beater, Pat Likens.

Atomically speaking, Miss A. will set the world on fire!

Boy

A tower of strength, a brawny Cyclops, a stalwart Hercules, an invincible Samson—is our all-powerful senior "ATOMIC BOY"!

His masculine kingdom of assets covers so much territory that the Wacs, Waves and Spars all joining forces prove a tottering defense against his gallant armour of manhood.

He's a snappy Dresser, George Price. His Atlas Build belongs to John Cipriano. Those Eyes? They are Forest Hubbard's. His four inch Smile belongs to Nunzio Polichene, and his deep Orson Welle's speaking Voice to Howard Wood. We like Waves, the black waves of Tony Marozzi's Hair.

A guy named Joe Pandolfi is our Friendly boy; our sense of Humor Einstein, Duane Payne. Monsieur Gordon Lange has the nicest Personality. Atomic Energy, 'tis seen daily in Jim DiPoala. Aye, aye, it is Knight Carl George, the navy Gentleman.

He's so Modest, Walter Mowen, that is. Guess what? Ted Snowe is the senior's Intellect. That there Loren Workman is a right Dependable fellar. We want that you should know that Pres. Doug Brown led our class through '46 and '47. He's our Leader. You can't beat Dale Randall's Sincerity.

He'll swish off a Rembrandt for you in a moment's notice, Albert Herrick. This guy's got the Ambition—he's Elbert Honeywell. The man of all our Dancing dreams is Leonard Romano . . . The vote stood unanimous for Keith Harlan as class Bluffer.

Don't you agree that there should be some kind of international control for Mr. A?

and in departing leave behind us . . .
